

Our patch represents Past, Present and Future

- ◆ Dating back to the 1772 Pine Tree Riot, the significance behind unyielding courage, strength and honor has held great meaning for the proud people of Weare. The anvil centralized in the design boldly symbolizes these notable qualities. This forging tool also represents a solid foundation for our bringing about positive change.
- ◆ A rising sun denotes a “new day” and bright future while the flawless blue sky represents our crystal clear vision. Seven rays of the sun symbolize the seven days of the week we protect and so proudly serve this community.
- ◆ In the mid-section, you find historical references to both the Pine Tree Riot and New England Hurricane of 1938. These events held a profound impact on the Town of Weare.
- ◆ As a whole, the design is brought together through geometric shapes. Sharp apexes and angles are symbolic of a navigation compass. The members of the Weare Police Department are pointed in a positive direction.
